

UCLA Schedule of Classes – Summer Sessions

Given the number of courses offered in various lengths, the UCLA Schedule of Classes is the best way to obtain the most up-to-date course information. We have put together step-by-step instructions to help you and your students find the right courses.

When you are ready, go to: <https://sa.ucla.edu/ro/public/soc>.

EXAMPLE 1 – Economics 2

Using the course Economics 2: Principles of Economics as an example, we will show you how to look for the course schedule and other important course information.

1. Select "Summer Sessions 2020" under Term

2. Select the Session Period that works for you.

3. The search criteria option is set as "Subject Area" by default. Do not change.

4. Type in one of the UCLA subject areas that you are interested in, e.g., Economics

1. Select "Summer Sessions 2020" under Term
2. Select a Session. The options are "All Sessions," "Session A," and "Session C."
 - Select "All Sessions" if you are flexible and can take any course regardless of when it's offered during the summer. The entire summer term is June 22-September 11.
 - "Session A" includes 6- to 10- week courses that start on June 22, as well as 3-week courses offered in June 22-July 10 or July 13-July 31.
 - "Session C" includes 6-week courses that are offered August 3-September 11 and 3-week courses that are offered August 3-August 21.
3. The search criteria option is set as "Subject Area" by default. Please do not change.
4. Start typing in the UCLA subject area you are interested in. We are using Economics as an example.

7. You will see all Econ 2 options that are available during the entire summer as we selected "All Sessions" when starting the search. Each option shows how many spots have been taken, when and where the course meets, and who the instructor is. If the instructor has not been assigned, it will say "The Staff."

Since one course can be offered multiple times during the summer, each version of the course is identified as a specific "section." Let's say we are interested in the July 13-July 31 3-week option. The section is "Lec 3" as opposed to "Lec 1" and "Lec 2" which are the other two options. Click on "Lec 3" and detailed class information will appear.

8. The Class ID number is what's required when submitting the initial enrollment request.

- Course status shows the number of spots left. Waitlists may be created if the course becomes full.
- When a waitlist is available, the waitlist status will show the number of waitlist spots.
- Days, Time, and Location indicate the course meeting days, times, and the building name and room number where class meets.
- Units is where you can find the number of UC Credit units the course offers. In case of Econ 2, it's a 4-unit course. With this unit information, you can estimate the unit fees for the course ($$360 \times 4 = $1,440$).
- Grade Type shows the grading basis of the course.
- Restrictions show whether the course is open to everyone or limited to UCLA students or particular UCLA majors only. Most of the courses will say "Class: None," meaning non-UCLA students can enroll without restrictions.
- If "Impacted" says yes, you need to pay attention to the drop and refund deadlines, which in most cases are earlier than non-impacted courses.

EXAMPLE 2 – Chemistry 14B

Now let's do another search. This time, we are looking for Chem 14B. This example will have an important difference that you need to be aware of, so please be sure to review it.

There is a little triangle next to the check box. Click on it.

4. You will see a little triangle in purple next to the check box in the "select" column, different from the Econ 2 example. This little triangle in purple indicates that the course has "discussion sections."

Some UCLA undergraduate courses have class meetings for lecture only, while some courses have meetings to discuss and learn more about lecture in smaller sub-groups in addition to the class meetings for lecture. The sub-groups for these additional class meetings are called discussion sections.

For courses with discussion sections, students are required to attend both lecture meetings and discussion section meetings. Since lecture times are the same for all discussion sections, the UCLA enrollment system is set up so that students select a discussion section that works for their schedule. If enrolled in a discussion section, students are automatically enrolled in the lecture portion of the course, as opposed to enrolling in lecture and discussion section separately.

Click on the purple triangle to see all discussion section options.

NOTE: To see all sections for this class, you must select: (1) a Lecture; (2) a Discussion.

6. Please note that the details you see are only for Discussion Section 1A.

The status and waitlist status are for the discussion section, and are different from the total course capacity.

The meeting times listed are only for the discussion section meetings, and students must attend class lecturers as well, which will be in addition to the discussion section meetings.

The unit information says 0 because students do not earn additional unit credit by attending discussion sections. Grade type says non-graded because students earn grade from the entire class.

Therefore, there are only two pieces of information you should take from the discussion section details.

The first one is the Class ID number. Since enrollment in the course is done through the discussion section, you and your students need to provide the Class ID number for the discussion section, if applicable, when submitting the enrollment request.

The other is the discussion section meeting information. For all other course details, students need to click on the lecture portion of the class, in this case, "Lec 1."
